

I am absolutely opposed to being contacted telephonically by financial institutions, even those I do business with. This should be my choice, not the institutions/businesses. These institutions could very well give me the option of being contacted telephonically by sending me a letter asking if I wish to receive solicitation calls from them.

Please do not permit these institutions an exemption from the "do not call."

Also, please expand the "do not call" program to e-mail as well.

Paul Downing